Advice on finding accommodation

- The housing market is quite competitive and it is not easy to find a place to stay. However, it is also not impossible if you start early, use your networks (e.g. in your department) and are willing to make some compromises at the beginning of your stay.
- Below is a list of possible places to stay. It is not an exhaustive list, but it offers a good starting point.
- Please note: If you have doubts concerning the soundness of an apartment offer, please feel free to contact us – especially if the landlord asks for an advanced payment.

Apartment for International staff

The university has a four bedroom apartment available to international members of staff – provided that they are also enrolled as PhD students. If a room is open in the apartment and you will be enrolling for a PhD, we will automatically offer you a room there and help you to apply for it. The apartment is in one of the newest Student Services buildings and is very close to the Westerberg site.
