Registering with the authorities

In Germany, one is obliged to register one’s place of residence with the authorities in the city where one lives. Furthermore, non-EU citizens need to apply for a residence title that permits them to work here and sometimes need to extend it during their stay. Here is information on how to do it.

<td>Where to go to</td>
<td>The city’s Foreigners’ Office (“Ausländerbehörde” in German). Each German city has such an office. They are responsible for administrative matters pertaining to non-EU citizens living in Germany.</td>
<td>The city’s Registration Office (“Einwohnermeldeamt” in German).</td>

| What to take along | 1) Your passport.
2) A so-called “Wohnungsgeberbestätigung” showing your address and serving as official proof that you have accommodation in Osnabrück. Please ask your landlord or landlady to complete it.
3) If family members are accompanying you, you also need these documents:
   a) A list with the names of all family members that have to be registered.
   b) Their passports showing their valid visas.
   c) Your original marriage certificate as well as the original birth certificates of all family members that have to be registered. The marriage and birth certificates need to be accompanied by certified German translations.
4) A recent passport-sized biometrical photo.
5) Your employment contract/a letter from HR. You will get it from us during our first meeting.
6) Proof of health insurance. We will provide you with information on this during our first meeting. | Citizens from EU countries do not need to provide these documents. |
| Costs | The registration procedure at the Foreigners’ Office may cost up to EUR 110,00. | EU citizens do not pay any fees to register. |

Your academic department may organise someone to accompany you to the city’s Foreigners’ Office or to the Registration Office.

Remember to make an appointment! See information on how to do it on the next page.
